Out[15]: ['I lost 80% of my mind. It's very freeing. You should see the look on your faces right now, by the way. Oh! Good evening, San Francisco. Are you guys excited, yeah? All right. Well, my name is Vir Das. We're gonna have such a good time tonight. I'm so excited. It's gonna be delightful. Oh, this is how I talk now. I just thought it was time to really embrace my roots, you know, and to make my comedy more authentically Indian. And really, what could be more Indian than a fake American accent? I don't think you understand. I have an opportunity to make history tonight, guys. I can. I can be the first ever Indian who comes to California… and then leaves. That's never happened before. Because you guys are sticking around. Until they kick you out. Which, going by the news, is about three weeks from now.',

Thank you. I'm like the Genghis Khan of the Holiday Inn chain. My DNA is everywhere. If your hotel has a memory foam mattress, I'm the memory.',
 'And two, no matter where I went in the entire world, people said the same thing. They said, "Oh, my God, you're Indian? I love Indian people. They're, like, so smart. Indian people, you're, like, so smart." Which leads me to believe the rest of the world not that smart. Now, there's no answer to that question. Whenever somebody says, "Indian people, so smart," all we can do is just, "Namaste," and, "Yes." "Okay." Because we all know the reality, right? In reality, 20% of India is
